Two Free Webinars on Climate Change Planning

NADO Webinar on Building Disaster Resilient Economies

In the wake of natural disasters, local and regional economies are extremely vulnerable. Businesses can suffer costly damage, be cut off from supplies, lose sales, and experience disrupted operations. In some cases, they may even be forced to close permanently. When businesses and industries fail or falter the communities they serve can feel serious impacts, ranging from a lack of access to goods and services to the loss of income and jobs.

Increasing the resilience of businesses and regional economies to natural disasters calls for a creative mix of land use, hazard mitigation, capital improvement, economic development, and other approaches. Join the NADO Research Foundation on Tuesday, April 8, 2014 from 2:00-3:15 p.m. ET for a free webinar, Lessons from the Storm: Using Community and Economic Development Strategies to Build Disaster Resilient Economies. Leaders from East Central Iowa; Longmont, Colorado; and Springfield, Massachusetts will discuss how they are rebuilding and protecting their economic assets, including downtowns and key industries; targeting growth to safe locations and encouraging walkable, mixed-use design; providing recovery funding and preparedness training to businesses; upgrading infrastructure; encouraging economic diversification; and promoting regional partnerships and coordinated planning.

Click here for more information and to register. The NADO Research Foundation has applied for 1.25 AICP CM credits for this webinar; registrants will be notified once approval is received. The webinar is supported by the U.S. Economic Development Administration. Contact Megan McConville at mmconville@nado.org with any questions.
